

Feel the Letters

PRACTICE • FOCUS • CHALLENGE

Sometimes we use more than just our eyes to learn! In this activity, you will try writing your name without looking — using only your sense of touch.

Directions:

1. Take a piece of paper and a pencil or crayon.
2. Close your eyes (or look away).
3. Use only your sense of touch to write your name.
4. When you are finished, open your eyes and see how you did!
5. Try it again if you want — can you make it even better?

Think About It...

- What did it feel like to write your name without looking?
- Was it easy or challenging?
- What helped you?
- How does this help you understand how important practice and focus are?
